

Hi %%First-Name%%,

We are excited to announce that General Networks' Intelligent Information Management team, known as IIM, is now officially part of Compass365.

IIM and Compass365 have collaborated for over 20 years under the General Networks umbrella, so this is less of a leap and more of a natural next step. What it means for you is access to deeper expertise in enterprise content management, information governance, records management, and Microsoft 365 information architecture, all under one roof.

This matters more than ever as organizations look to get real value from AI tools like Microsoft Copilot. A well-governed information environment is not just good practice; it is the foundation that makes AI work safely and reliably. Whether you are modernizing SharePoint, cleaning up years of unmanaged content, improving compliance, or preparing for Copilot, this expanded team means Compass365 can support you further along that journey.
